

Swedish Forestry Expo returns!

After the successful premiere, there was no doubt that the trade fair Swedish Forestry Expo would return. The next time the fair is held will be June 3–5, 2027.

The trade association MaskinLeverantörerna together with its forest machinery section has decided that the Swedish Forestry Expo will return to Solvalla in four years, more precisely on June 3–5, 2027. Just as before, this international meeting place will be focused on professional forestry with the machines in focus.

- We are very pleased with the outcome of Swedish Forestry Expo 2023. Our goal was to create a new and attractive meeting place for the professional forestry, where visitors could see relevant products and the latest technology in the forest machinery industry. After the successful premiere, we look forward to developing the brand further and bringing the industry together again in four years, says Lina Hallman, CEO of MaskinLeverantörerna.

The forest machinery companies were also satisfied with the fair and look forward to meeting again in 2027.

- We've had a few years where we haven't had the possibility to meet, so this fair was highly anticipated, and it turned out just as good as we were hoping for. We also saw that there is a lot of faith in the future among the exhibitors. The fair gave us the opportunity to meet our professional customers again and there were many good conversations out on the fair site. Some of the keywords for the fair were equality, sustainability, and innovation, which received a positive response from the visitors, says Ulf Nordström, chairman of the forest machinery section.
